THE PARK'S FRIEND

Frank L. Rollins, who died suddenly this week, will be remembered for his many activities during his long career in Salem, but above all his interest in and work for Centennial park will not soon be forgotten.

Mr. Rollins was not merely a member of the park commission from the time of its inception more than 30 years ago. He wanted to have the park made as attractive as possible and he encouraged everyone in Salem to use it. Much of the credit for the park's present popularity is due him.

Other members of the park commission have contributed their share to the improvement and maintenance of the city park, but none of them had a more friendly interest in it than did Mr. Rollins. He served his city as a member of council and later as president of that body, and in many other ways served his community, but his contribution to the park stands out as his greatest community service.

KEEP THE STREETS CLEAN

Salem's unsightly streets in its business district have been the subject of many uncomplimentary remarks for several years. Sidewalks are littered with waste papers and other refuse and attempts in the past to correct this condition have not been successful.

As its first contribution to community service, the new Junior Chamber of Commerce proposes to do something about it. The young men in this organization are preparing to place receptacles at convenient places along E. State st., and Broadway, in the hope that merchants and pedestrians will use them. The city has agreed to empty the receptacles at frequent intervals.

Here's an opportunity for public cooperation in a worthwhile undertaking. The cans will not serve their purpose unless merchants, in having their sidewalks swept, insist that the employee dump the refuse in the cans instead of sweeping it into the street to be blown up and down the street. Shoppers and others who use the sidewalks must cooperate, also, if the streets are to be kept clean.

DAYWORK

The principle that the national government should have authority over wages and hours is to be established by the wage-hour bill, which has survived the ordeal by compromise.

It is estimated that no less than 750 boards will be created to determine what minimum wages should be in various industries. That was the number of boards needed by NRA to cover all industries.

It is well to bear in mind that the only difference between NRA and a wage-hour law is that the latter is for the benefit of labor and the former was for the benefit of labor and management, in theory. The wage-hour law thus becomes the second part of the blue eagle to be disinterred for the benefit of labor. The first was the national labor relations act, to take the place of the collective bargaining clause in the original recovery law.

The effect of this move will not be clear for several more years. In the meantime, it's hard to overlook those 750 boards, whose members will be paid by the day. That's one effect no one will have to wait for; the plum tree is laden with fruit.

SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

While attention is being focused on party contests for the August 9 primary election, the public should not overlook another issue just as important as voting for the men best qualified for the positions they seek. It is the bond issue of $65,000 to provide relief from congested conditions in Salem High school.

This condition has been growing more serious each year for several years until, with the opening of the fall term in September, school authorities face the problem of housing about 1,000 students in a building constructed to take care of only 600. To meet this problem, the board of education proposes to build a wing on the north side of the present building similar to the wing on the south side, constructed ten years ago.

In spite of the present depression, this is an ideal time to present such a building program. Bonds can be purchased at a lower rate of interest at this time, work will be provided when it is most needed, and the slight increase in tax rate will not be placed on the

STUDENTS TELL ABOUT "THE IDEAL PARENT"

LOS ANGELES — "What is an ideal parent?"

"An ideal parent is always plural; is a guide, companion, friend and comforter, but not obtrusively so."

The response to this question came from the University of Southern California, where Dr. Bessie Avern McClenahan, professor of Sociology and Social Work, not only gave her definitions, but polled 1,100 undergraduates on the subject.

The query was put by Motion Picture Producer Ben N. Judell. Judell had been reading the newspapers, and decided that the time had come to make a film dealing with parental delinquencies, but first he had to have complete definitions of the ideal parent and the "delinquent parent," title of the proposed drama.

Question Taken Seriously

Few of the University of Southern California students were inclined to treat the questions lightly, and with one or two exceptions, offered constructive advice to both parents and Judell.

Abert "Bud" Colegrove, editor-elect of the campus humor magazine, and Kevin Sweeney, business manager of the student daily, concurred in the belief that:

"A 'Delinquent Parent' is one who remembers to write to his son regularly admonishing him to study, but forgets to enclose a check."

Consensus of the poll, which Dr. McClenahan turned over to Judell was:

"To be an ideal parent requires thought, planning and effort. . . it is a job. The ideal parent considers the child valuable in his own right, and enjoys having good times with him, but not to the extent of being possessive, jealous, dominating or demanding for the child, as an individual must learn how to make his own decisions and stand on his own feet."

Is Well-Adjusted Person

"The ideal parent is individually a well-adjusted person, who studies to learn how best to train his child, and by maintaining an active interest in him stimulates him to acquire educational and vocational training. In addition to opening doors to new interests, and new people, the ideal parent," according to Dr. McClenahan's poll, "develops an increasingly intelligent and satisfying religious philosophy in order to help the child find his way through the mazes of uncertainty and intellectual struggle."

"The ideal parent believes in the family, and so is never singular, but always plural, and the relationship between the parents is a wholesome and happy one."

"Family relationships," says Dr. McClenahan, "should be satisfying personal experiences, but, at the same time, a sense of responsibility to the community must be realized."

Criticism of Parents

Major criticisms leveled against many modern parents by the under graduates were that many children are either spoiled or neglected, and that the "delinquent parent" does not consider the child's personality and individual needs. Says Dr. McClenahan: "The 'Delinquent Parent' is not only the parent who breaks laws and is brought to the judge and court. The 'delinquent parent' is the parent who has failed to understand the significance of parenthood and of childhood, and thus denied both himself and his child the growth and happiness that result from love and mutual sharing within the family."

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, June 16

Judging by this day's sidereal operations, there may be some important matters of a rather strange or intriguing nature to dispose of with shrewdness, intelligence and sagacity. These may be the climax of yesterday's astounding adventures and call for some quick decisions. Delays menace but quick action and wise management may stabilize the future fortunes.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which their future success, happiness and stability may depend on wise and shrewd decisions made at this time. There are omens of treachery, intrigue and underhand menaces, in which writings and documents seem involved. Be cautious, alert, shrewd in all affairs of a strange, subtle or disintegrating nature. Shun accident, strife.

A child born on this day may be alert, clever, of fine mentality, although shrewd and quick to grasp the subtle and intangible. It may succeed in original lines or through stratagem and a peculiar resourcefulness. It may attain some public renown.

THE "CHEW-CHEW" PROBLEM

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

THRUSH

There are a number of infections that attack the mouth of the infant. Such troubles were common before we started to give careful attention to hygiene. Undoubtedly the old-time prevalence of mouth infections was due to the lack of proper care.

Yet, some infections are still met by the physician. Among those that can be traced to carelessness is a disease called "thrush."

If the mouth is carefully examined, small whitish patches will be seen on the lining of the mouth, the tonsils, and back of the throat. The patches are covered with a well-like whitish deposit.

Hard to Remove

This deposit appears to be elevated above the surrounding parts. It is removed with difficulty, leaving behind a brownish bleeding discoloration. If the material from these patches is examined under the microscope, the specific parasite of thrush will be seen.

Thrush, as I have indicated, was once a common infection of the young infant. I am glad to say it is rarely encountered today. Yet, it should never be permitted to exist; there is no excuse for carelessness in the mouth hygiene.

The parasite which causes thrush has a big name, "ordium albicans." It is really a form of fungus. It is found in soil and dust particles and on objects contaminated by dust.

Precautions Needed

If the mouth of a child is neglected, with little attention to hygiene, infection of one sort or another is bound to occur. The bottle-fed infant is especially liable to this infection. For this reason, the care of the rubber nipples, bottles and containers used in preparing baby's formula.

When thrush is present the infant refuses food. It appears to have difficulty in swallowing. The child is extremely restless and has a persistent diarrhea.

Although the disease may at first seem quite alarming, it is never fatal. With cleanliness, care of the mouth and the application of a mild antiseptic, speedy cure occurs.

Bear in mind that to avoid this disease, as well as to guard against many other infections of the mouth, scrupulous cleanliness and mouth hygiene must be enforced by all parents.

Rat Tale

VALPARAISO, Ind.—Dr. Harry V. Fuller, former head of Valparaiso University's science department, used a radio to drive rats from his henhouse.

After rats killed 400 young turkeys in the henhouse, he installed the radio and kept it going full blast last night and day.

The rats disappeared, he said, while the turkeys thrived on the diet of music, speeches and drama.

PASADENA, Calif.—Cecil Howard, younger brother of the Earl of Suffolk, one of England's oldest noble families, has announced his intention of buying a ranch in the San Gabriel valley and settling down here. He plans to enter the aviation industry and will establish a private airport on his ranch.

Editor, The News:

The open season for "mud slinging" is on full blast. Congressman Blank and Senator Blankley Blank will tell of their "Simon Pure" qualifications for office, and drag to the depths their opponents.

Now as never before, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen should carefully weigh the qualifications of every aspirant who seeks office as a representative of the people. The fact that Congressman Blank voted for house bill No. 100,001 and against house bill No. 100,002 doesn't qualify him for re-election.

CIGARS RETAIN CHANCE OF TIE IN LOCAL LOOP

Stogies Defeat Demings For Fourth Win In Five Games

Retaining a slim chance of getting in on the Class A Softball league's second round championship picture, Scott's Cigars defeated Demings, 8 to 0, at Centennial park last evening for their fourth win in five second round games.

If Mullins Foremen should win over Ohio Edison in their crucial game Thursday evening, the Cigars will be tied with the Foremen and O. E. for the second round championship. If the Edisonites beat the Foremen, the round title will go to the O. E. team.

Grady Odom made his first start as a pitcher for the Cigars in their game last evening and turned in a good job in limiting the Pumpmackers to six safe blows. Odom was given fine fielding support by his mates.

The Stogies layed on Pitcher McQuiston of Demings for 14 hits to tally three runs in the third inning, four in the fourth and one in the sixth. Kuntzman, Zeigler, Smith, Sutter and Huffer led the Cigars in batting.

No other Class A league game was played. The senior circuit will end its second round tomorrow evening with the Ohio Edison meeting Mullins in the first game and the Old Timers facing the Cigars in the nightcap.

The Methodists remained in a tie with the Columbians for first place in the Class B circuit in one of two games, defeating the Baptists, 4 to 2. Both the M. E. and Columbians teams have won three games and lost none in the second round.

Extra base hits by West and C. Weigand aided the Methodists in scoring four runs which whipped the Baptists. They tallied one marker in the first frame, two in the second and one in the fourth, while the Baptists were held to two runs in the fifth inning.

The Presbyterians lost to the Emmanuel Lutherans in the other Class B game, dropping a 6 to 1 decision as Bill Pauline hurled fourth ball for the Emmanuel.

Good While They Lasted

Two of Greatest Hill-Billy Pitching Aces Out of Southwest This Season In Land Whence They Sprung; Another Greater One May Go

By LAWTON CARVER, International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Two of the greatest pitchers ever to come hill-billing out of the southwest are back this season in the land whence they sprung and another, even greater than either of the others, may be headed in the same general direction. As far as ages go, all are just at their peak, but cut down by the same malady, sore arms, suddenly prevalent among them as boll weavils in the cotton patches of their part of the country.

Best of them all is Dizzy Dean, whose return to the game with the Chicago Cubs recently was delayed because of his arm ailment, and next in line comes Schoolboy Rowe, of the Detroit Tigers, whose pitching wing has been nursed and codified futilely all season. The other one is Daffy Dean, Dizzy's brother, who couldn't even make the grade with the Texas league. Rowe expects to do some better down there, where he will try to pitch himself back into shape, and Dizzy hopes fully is clinging to the notion that he is going to be all right after all and a factor yet to the Cubs' plan for landing in the world series.

Those three tall, drawing gems must be ranked among the best right-handers the game has seen—as long as they lasted. All three were 20-game winners at one time or another, and, in fact, Dizzy won 30 one year and 28 another, as he fast-balled his way to a following that was second only to the throngs that thrilled to Babe Ruth's every antic.

Dizzy was voted the National league's most valuable player award one season, was strike-out king innumerable times and in 1934, the year he turned in 30 victories, hurled the St. Louis Cardinals right into the world series.

Rowe won 24 games in 1934 and 19 in 1935 and with that helped to bring the Tigers two American league pennants and into two world series, besides his steady pitching through several seasons. Daffy Dean contributed one of the rarest of all feats to the baseball record books—the only no-hit game of the 1934 season.

All in all, the three gems from the southwest were something better than country throwers after all. They were good competitors, besides being mechanically excellent performers.

And they all are comparatively young, certainly not beyond their peak but for those arm ailments. Dizzy Dean is only 27, Daffy Dean 26 and Rowe the same age as the latter.

It may be that any one of them, or all three, perhaps, will bounce back before the season runs out, or before another one does, although Daffy Dean apparently has the best chance of all of clinging to the top.

He at least hasn't been shipped to the minors so far, and doesn't have to beat his way back into the big leagues. Daffy Dean has been pronounced through by virtually all concerned and Rowe is down in the Texas league to do the best he can. I'm not sure what the moral of all this is, unless it is that these three hill-billy gems prove that a baseball player should get all he can get while he can get it. There comes a time when even the minors don't want you.

There comes a time when even the minors don't want you.

He at least hasn't been shipped to the minors so far, and doesn't have to beat his way back into the big leagues. Daffy Dean has been pronounced through by virtually all concerned and Rowe is down in the Texas league to do the best he can. I'm not sure what the moral of all this is, unless it is that these three hill-billy gems prove that a baseball player should get all he can get while he can get it. There comes a time when even the minors don't want you.

BOMBER TO TRY FOR QUICK K. O. IN TITLE BOUT

Says He'll Score Kayo If Schmeling Stands Up And Fights

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, June 15.—If you can take sleepy-eyed Joe Louis at his word—and he never was a fellow to talk just to hear his head rattle—the fight at Yankee stadium a week from tonight may be a Brannigan such as hasn't been seen since Jack Dempsey and Luis Firpo used everything except poison gas on each other back in the colossal twenties.

The one little doubt about the impending duello has been the possibility that Louis would be gun-shy and would try to play it cute, staying back of his left jab for 15 tedious rounds while Max Schmeling swore in German and waited in vain for a crack at the pliant Louis jaw.

Happily now, all such doubts of the approaching 19th battle of the century have been erased.

Louis has expressed the hope that Schmeling will "stand up and fight." If Schmeling will Joe promises to dispose of him in not more than four rounds. Boyo! stand back and quit getting in the way of the rescue squads.

A guy as filled with zeal and patriotic fervor as is Max Schmeling will fight anything. He is a crusader with an almost fanatical gleam in his eye. The one thing he has dreamed of for two years is another chance to hit Joe Louis. Joe need not worry about Max's willingness to whale it out.

Not that Schmeling will do anything foolish. If Louis means he wants the challenger to come out swinging, he will be disappointed. Max simply doesn't fight that way.

But if the Negro wants to go after Schmeling and try to hang up that quick knockout, then he can be assured of action for his money. Max will meet him half-way, pumping that drastic right of his, and the results should be sudden and violent.

VITT TIGHTENS HIS DISCIPLINE

Bears Down As Indians' Lead Wanes To Half-Game In League

CLEVELAND, June 15.—Manager Oscar Vitt, beset by an acute case of pitcher trouble, invoked old fashioned discipline today in an effort to keep his Cleveland Indians at the top of the American league.

Washington administered a 7-6 shellacking to the Tribe yesterday, boosting to five the Indians' consecutive defeats. It reduced Cleveland's lead over the New York Yankees to half a game.

Then O'Leary announced a midnight curfew for Cleveland players until further notice, with a $100 for each violation thereof.

It was a "change of pace" for Vitt, who early in the season admonished the Redskins only to "take care of yourselves, get plenty of sleep and use common sense about eating and drinking."

Freshman Johnny Humphries failed to stem the Senators in his debut as a starting pitcher. Washington staged a four-run jamboree, including two homers, in the fifth frame and sent Humphries to the showers.

Vitt had started Humphries because his recognized big guns, Mel Harder, B. B. Feller, Johnny Allen and Earl Whitehill, had crumpled in the pinches.

"It doesn't make much difference whom we start," observed Vitt. "We haven't had a well pitched game in several weeks. I may give Bill D. Zuber a chance to start today, or it may be Whitehill."

"Humphries had plenty on the ball," Vitt said, "but was handicapped by poor control and loose defensive play."

Does Louis See a Vision?

Joe Louis

Behind those dark glasses Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, sees a vision—of Max Schmeling down for the count. Or at least he hopes such will be the real vision the night of June 22 when he defends his heavy title against Max in Yankee stadium, New York.

Jennings Nine Wins 2nd Game

With DeCrow, Ellis and Lentz leading the hitting, the Jennings A. C. softball team defeated the Salem Cardinals, 8 to 6, in the second game between the two teams at the Fifth st. field yesterday. The Cardinals won the first game played Monday.

DeCrow collected three hits and Ellis and Lentz each made two bingles as the Jennings team hampered Pitcher Votaw of the Cardinals for 13 safe blows. The A. C. muckballers tallied their winning runs in the seventh frame after the score had been tied at 6 to 6 in the sixth inning.

P. Nocera went the full distance on the mound for the Jennings team, allowing 10 hits. Summary follows:

Theater Attractions

Madge Evans and John Boles in a scene from "Sinners in Paradise," showing at the State theater Thursday only.

Romance, tragedy and wild adventure march hand in hand in "Sinners in Paradise," which will be the State theater's attraction on Thursday.

Madge Evans, John Boles and Bruce Cabot have the principal roles, with Marion Martin, Gene Lockhart, Nana Bryant, Charlotte Wynters, Milburn Stone, Morgan Conway, Donald Barry and Willie Fung also prominently cast.

Cast Away On Island

Directed by James Whale, the picture relates the vast changes in character that occur when nine passengers on a trans-Pacific liner are cast away on an island inhabited only by a doctor and his Chinese servant. The doctor is hiding from the law because he has killed the man who led his sister to her doom.

The castaways are an oddly assorted crew. First there is a dissatisfied wife who has left her husband and plans to nurse in the Orient. The doctor falls in love with her, but forces her to seek the right path when rescue looms. Another castaway is one of the richest girls in the world; another is a motherly fortune-telling soul. Others include a beautiful blonde fleeing from a gambling investigation; a racketeer; a pompous politician; two unscrupulous munitions salesmen; and a resourceful steward on the airliner.

Forced to shift for themselves in primitive surroundings, the elemental emotions of these people surge to the surface and find full release.

Comedy Concludes Tonight

Concluding tonight at the State is the Laurel and Hardy comedy "Swiss Miss" featuring Della Lind and Walter Woolf King in romantic roles, and Eric Blore in a comedy part.

Francis Lederer and Frances Drake have the leading roles in the "Lone Wolf in Paris" adventures, he gallantly places his heart and his skill at the disposal of the princess.

"The Lone Wolf in Paris" will be seen Thursday at the Grand.

In this picture the beloved genius has turned his strange genius toward helping the law instead of evading it. But his determination to settle down and give up his bizarre calling is ruined when he registers at the exclusive Hotel Napoleon in Paris.

He has hardly settled in his new quarters before things begin to happen. He comes to the aid of the beautiful Princess of Arvonne who is seeking the return of crown jewels in an effort to keep her country out of a revolution. In the course of many exciting adventures, he gallantly places his heart and his skill at the disposal of the princess.

SPEECHES SLOW CONGRESS PLANS

Adjournment Hour May Be Delayed As Result Of Debate

Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), who led the fight against these provisions, contended they would abrogate states' rights.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, told the senate it must dispose of the flood control bill before adjournment.

Ready To Stay

"We don't have to adjourn this week," he told reporters. "If opponents want to keep on talking, we can stay here."

O'Mahoney would say only that "there are a number of senators who wish to discuss the bill, and I don't know how long it will take."

He rejected a request by Barkley to set a definite time for voting on the measure. As a result, Barkley called the senate into an unusual 10 a. m. session today.

Before encountering the flood control deadlock, the senate approved most provisions of the relief bill but refused to accept two house amendments.

One would cut from $1,000,000 to $500,000 the sum allocated to the Rural Electrification Administration for administrative expenses. The other would set up a new formula for distributing payments from the $212,000,000 provided for additional farm benefits.

The controversial points went back to a joint senate-house committee which originally composed differences between relief bills passed by the two chambers.

The wage-hour bill, one of President Roosevelt's major recommendations, received a tepid 290-to-89 vote of approval yesterday in the house. The senate, without even bothering to call the roll, sent it on to the White House for the President's assured signature. The far-reaching measure then will become effective in 120 days.

The two chambers spent most of last evening approving or rejecting piles of run-of-the-mill legislation. Galleries were crowded. Spectators lined up in corridors in a vain effort to gain admittance.

be carrying on interstate commerce if only ten copies of his paper were sold outside Virginia.

"I think you would be dealing in interstate commerce," Borah said.

"I don't," Glass retorted, and sat down. Some specific exemptions to wage and hour provisions are made in the act. They include all "bona fide" executive, administrative, professional or local retailing employees.

On Exempted List

Agricultural workers, seamen, aviators, rail employees, street car workers, motor carrier employees, fishing industry employees, workers on small weekly or semi-weekly newspapers, and agricultural and horticultural processors in the area of production are exempt.

The act would ban the transportation, delivery or sale of goods in interstate commerce by an employer who had violated the wage-hour provisions. Common carriers would not be liable under this section.

Employers may not discharge or discriminate against an employee who makes a complaint of violation of the law, or who testifies at a wage-hour hearing, or who serves on an industrial committee.

Employers liable for unpaid minimum wages or overtime must pay the worker an additional equal amount as liquidated damages. The law also provides a maximum fine of $10,000, six months in jail or both for violation, although no jail term can be imposed for the first offense.

Fishing Rights

CHICAGO — A. L. Buckland is gambling on a lot of golfers' hooks and slices.

He was awarded a contract to fish all the lost balls out of water holes on the park district's four courses. He guarantees the district 1,000 balls a week for use on its practice driving course. All the others will be his.
